

Since the man appeared things now are on the other side of as they were before. God gives and takes away to me used to mean good things happen, I get money, relationships then lose it or it gets taken away. The meaning gives and takes was defined as material things, relationships, things I can see and feel. Since the man take away means he takes away doubt, indecisiveness, greed, dishonesty, loneliness, hopelessness, desperation, jealousy, animosity, hatred, illness, resentment and more. Then he gives confidence, perseverance, determination, insight, decisiveness, compassion.

Don't judge others is now don't cast your pearls before swine. In other words, I have to judge others or get ripped off. I have to judge to keep out the dangerous people. Don't throw away blessings cast to those who are against me. But that must be taken in context that everything is from god. If a man begs for you to give him a $1, give $2. If a man tries to cheat me, I don't have to let it happen. If half way through a transaction a cheat is uncovered then pay what it takes to satisfy the cheat and get out. Blessings include insight and wisdom. How many times has a person tried explaining themselves only to go around in circles in an argument. So I learned to only go around in circles three times at the most but then give up or the argument turns to violence. Sometimes to win I have to admit defeat. Better to say the person is right rather than start trouble. Trouble will come when the argument goes around in circles.

Second coming was when he first appeared in history and will appear again for the second time. He has appeared the second time as the man. Actually, he did not say who he was, he could have been who I thought he was later. But he could also have been an agent for who I thought it was. After all it must be a very busy position taking care of the universe and maybe agents are needed. In any case I received the second coming. The first was in history and how he was portrayed by the word and it was always in black and white. The second coming and since everything has been in color.

Revelations was the nightmare end of the world at the second coming. No, revelations is the end of the world when I was living on self-will. When self-died I was reborn. On the second coming love was the good and the self-will; the evil. Revelations then end of the world was the battle that inside the mind when the new birth, new ways saved me the old ways fought hard to prevent the new life. Here is an example of a battle and revelations I experienced during this time. Soon after the man appeared whenever I laid down scale and dimensions became extremely distorted. When I laid down I would look over at a wooden chair a few feet away. The chair became 200 feet high, the legs of the chair as big around as smoke stacks. I looked over to the door and it became 10 miles away; the ceiling as high as the clouds. Everything was beyond huge it was as if I was an ant. I thought why did the man have me see things this way. This went on for a few weeks. After a few weeks of this while I was lying down another feeling came over me that I was falling. It felt as if I jumped out of a plane and was falling 50,000 to earth. Whenever I paid down everything was miles high and miles away. When I stood up I was falling 50,000 feet. After a few more weeks of this and trying to figure out what was going on I thought maybe the man coming was the beginning of losing my mind. Then another thought would come that why would he bring bad things on me when everything was so wonderful. No, there must be another explanation other than losing my mind.

One afternoon while falling it crossed my mind that this is what a piece of dust does. To a piece of floating dust everything is miles high and miles away and dust is always falling. At that moment the falling the distorted scale of distance and size vanished and everything was back to the way it was. I said thank you for the lesson I have learned. The lesson is I am only dust.
